YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS OF THE 46th CONGRESS.

More Trouble in San Francisco--Descriptive Fire-Greenback Convention.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The resolution reported by Senator Hill, of Georgia from the committee on Contingent Expenses for the appointment of an Assistant Librarian for the Senate was discussed this morning. Senator Edmunds opposed it, saying the library had been satisfactorily administered by one librarian up to March 4th, 1879, and the present inconvenience was the result of the policy of turning out tried and efficient officers and replacing them by political favorites. Senators Davis (W. Va.) and Hill (Ga.) spoke of the need of the present in crease, and after some discussion, the resolution passed.

The bill incorporating the National Educational Association was then again taken up.

House.

After prayer by the chaplain, the Speaker declared that the first business in order was the question whether the proposition submitted yesterday by Mr. Best, of Ohio, in behalf of a bill introduced by Mr. Townsend last Monday and referred to the committee on Revision of Laws, shall be taken from that committee and referred to the committee on Ways and Means, presented a quorum of privilege.

Mr. Blackman moved a motion of order, that under the first clause of the rules defining the duties of the Speaker, the journal of yesterday would have to be examined and approved by the Speaker before the unfinished business relating to Monday's journal would come up.

The Speaker replied that the journal of Monday had not been disposed of, and it would be inconsistent to take up Tuesday's journal before Monday's for consideration.

Mr. Blackman argued that it was not demanded by the rules that the House should be informed of the fact, but it was imperative that the journal of one day should be read at the desk immediately after the assembling of the House on the following day.

Mr. Reed contended that Tuesday's journal could not be read until Monday's journal had been disposed of, and he referred as his authority to Rule 24, which declares the order of business. "After the journal has been read and approved."

Mr. Garfield, of Ohio, quoted in support of Reed's position, Section 5 of the Constitution, which provides that each House shall have the journal—not that the clerk shall keep it.

Mr. Blackman quoted from "Cushing's Manual" in support of his position.

After a short but confused debate upon Blackman's point, which was participated in by Mr. W. H. Brown, Hutchings, Reed, F. Wood and Newberry, the Speaker stated it was competent for, and obligatory upon, the House to approve its journal.

The Chair would, however, submit the question to the House whether the journal of yesterday must be read before the journal of Monday must be approved.

Mr. Conger, of Michigan, objected to any proceeding except the submission of the privileged question to the House.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

NASHVILLE, March 24.—After correspondence with the Governor of North and South Carolina and Virginia, Governor Arnolds has appointed a commission to arrange in connection with the commissioners appointed in the States named for the Centennial celebration of the battle of Kings Mountain in October.

MORE TROUBLE.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—Troubles have broken out here afresh. The same for resumed its fulminations, the newspaper war has broken out again and apparently, all the political parties plan to do their best to make the commissioners leading of the citizen union protective party and workingmen's party have been thrown aside by both. This state of affairs results from disagreements between the Conference Committees, aggravated by the recent selection proposed by the same for commissioners for the intermediate and last, but not least, Major Charles W. McElroy, of Pender, is all being brought forward as most prominent for the nomination. Not one of these well known Democratic names in the city is dearer than people or more in favor. Mr. McElroy, a man of great ability and a favorite citizen—Major McElroy is the choice of Pender for a nomination for Congress. The long and able services he has rendered the party and State have endeared him to the people and he is a bold and leading champion of popular rights he has undoubtedly enlisted as a speaker in every public meeting since he came to San Francisco. He has never been a regular democrat or a band-box man, who do only light or fancy work, or make only speeches, but he has on all occasions pulled off his coat, rolled up his sleeves, and gone where the roads were rough, the labor most arduous, and the weather most trying. In this way he has won the hearts of the people and has become a leader in the community.

As a soldier, no man in the District has a braver or better record. He was quite a hero in the campaign of 1856, when the terrible struggle ended, in which he bore a gallant and conspicuous part. Among the first to volunteer he never faltered or despaired, but from first to last was always to be found in the front rank, the most daring and the most勇敢. The foreign residents of Tokio have also started a fund in aid of the distressed Japanese.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

PARKER-BURG, W. Va., March 24.—During the high wind yesterday a fire broke out in the building of the Cope Bros. machine shop, and threatened the destruction of a large part of the city. The building, with six small frame buildings, and A. D. Cole & Bros. machine shop, were destroyed. The loss is $15,000, insured for $700. Thomas loses $1,000, and no insurance. R. Logan, $1,000, insured.

GREENBACK CONVENTION.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 24.—The Greenback Convention, as assembled last evening at 5 o'clock. A resolution providing for the selection by the convention of delegates at large to the National Convention was adopted, and also the usual greenback platform. The Convention, then adjourned until April 1st. T. B. Bowles, of Schenley county, was nominated for Supreme Court Judge. A. S. Roberts, of Crawford county, for Auditor. The general selection of two Electors at large was referred to the State committee. The Convention indorsed the Hon. Hendrick B. Wright for nomination for President. After which the convention adjourned sine die.

THE GREAT FIRE IN TOKIO.

Women and Children Trampled Under Foot—the Horrible Scene in the Streets.

JAPAN GAZETTE.

Hundreds of carpenters were at work erecting temporary places of shelter after the fire, men engaged at clearing away the ashes on the sites where their recent dwellings had stood; women walking about listlessly with children on their backs; groups of half a dozen or more old men, women and children gathered around the wrecks, trying to keep warm in their bodies streets rendered almost impassable by immense heaps of ashes, broken tiles and other debris; ferrymen driving a thriving trade where the bridges had been burned; the remains of large pottery factories which were ruined by the fire. So rapidly did the flames travel that it was with difficulty the streets were cleared of people before the houses ignited, and in so many places was the fire raging that they knew not which way to run.

Anxious to save fatus and weeping, the poor creatures saluted forth from their homes with bundles on their shoulders to fly they knew not whether. The streets became blood red with the surging masses. Women and children were trampled under foot, and many who fell in the crowd never rose again. Little children were seen looking for their parents, parents looking for their children, while the air was rent with cries of rage, anguish, despair. Still they clung tenaciously to the earthly possessions they had succeeded in bringing from their burning homes, thereby almost completely blocking up the narrow streets through which the masses were slowly thronging away.

At length the police interfered and caused numbers to throw their bundles into the rivers, or anywhere else out of the way, so as to facilitate the escape of the people from the frightful death which threatened them. The fire was still smoldering on. Sixty-eight streets, containing 11,464 houses were burned, rendering over 40,000 people homeless.

It is estimated that thirty people were trampled to death in the streets, and one hundred wounded were conveyed to the hospital. Some, however, reached the foreign station before they perished, but many died in the manner in which Mr. Rufin and I have aimed to further this grand enterprise. I have the humblest yet pleasant duty of following my worthy co-laborer and friend. This question like every other has a personal side. Will it be impossible to alienate them from their property? I am bound to discuss the merits of the bill? I think not, and, therefore, will proceed in my connection with this measure.

Everything had been got ready for flight, but had to be left in the house, as no coolies were to be found willing to undertake the task of removing even the boxes. It was a scene of confusion, and Mr. Chastain's hotel ignited several different times, but each time the flames were successfully suppressed. The residence of Bishop Williams, of the American Episcopal Mission, was set on fire. Mr. Best, of Ohio, introduced by Mr. Townsend last Monday and referred to the committee on Revision of Laws, shall be taken from that committee and referred to the committee on Ways and Means, presented a quorum of privilege.

Mr. Blackman moved a motion of order, that under the first clause of the rules defining the duties of the Speaker, the journal of yesterday would have to be examined and approved by the Speaker before the unfinished business relating to Monday's journal would come up.

The Speaker replied that the journal of Monday had not been disposed of, and it would be inconsistent to take up Tuesday's journal before Monday's for consideration.

The Speaker then said, "I have the question of forfeiture. We therefore, determined never to consent to that provision of the original bill. I suggested that the commissioners should be named in the bill. Judge Rufin came with an offer suggestion. He said Mr. Best had agreed to do so. The people of North Carolina convincing proof that he was actuated by good motives he would leave the decision of all questions affecting the contract to North Carolinians in whom they could have the most confidence. He then said, "Mr. Best met me in a spirit of frankness." The gentlemen who have been named to act on this commission are of the highest character and integrity. Governor Jarvis, Z. B. Vance and J. M. Worth, North Carolinians heart and soul, are fair-minded, upright, honorable men, in whom the people of the State as well as Mr. Best reposed implicit confidence.

In answering other objections made to this bill I can only repeat some of the arguments which have been urged by myself, and in the first place, I find that the State demands nothing in the deed proposed to be made to the trustee.

The first and second sections of this bill authorizes the Commissioners to convey only the interest of the State in the road to the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad Company, make no claim.

For months past, the question of the sale has been agitated throughout the State, and has been published in every part of our country. The extra session of the General Assembly has been a referendum to us as extraordinary measure.

While the State may desire to have the road built, it is not to be expected that the railroad company, make no claim.

They have notice that a barge is likely to be made. This, therefore, is the time to come forward and object, if they can, to the grantee's claim.

If, however, they are granted a right to do so, it is not to be expected that they will be allowed to do so.

I have no right to make and no suggestion to offer." I am happy to say we accepted the trust thus placed in our hands. In doing so, we took upon ourselves the responsibility of doing the work diligently and faithfully, and begged him not to mention the subject of compensation as we would not accept one cent; no, not even our expenses."

"Silver and gold," we said to him, "we have none, but such as we have we freely give from the love we bear to our country. We will do our best to entitle you to our trust, and assist you in your efforts."

Mr. Best, of Ohio, said, "I have only partially insured; residence of Mr. Bogel. Much sympathy is felt in Tokio and Yokohama for Mr. Soper, and the ladies connected with the same mission, as they have lost everything, and for their benefit have started a fund in aid of the distressed Japanese."

Political Matters in the Third District.

Correspondence of the News.

BURGESS, PENDER CO., March 23.—The general interest which prevails in this section upon the important question in the disposition of the Western North Carolina Railroad, will not be easily forgotten, as far as personal effects are concerned.

Mr. Best, of Ohio, moved a motion of order, that under the first clause of the rules defining the duties of the Speaker, the journal of yesterday must be read before the unfinished business relating to Monday's journal would come up.

Mr. Best,

DAILY NEWS

THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1880.

GEO. C JORDAN, Editor and Prop.

The Greensboro Beacon announces Col. John R. Winston as its political editor, and its adhesion to the National or Greenback party. A State Convention of the National Greenback Labor party is called to meet in Greensboro on May 5th, 1880.

The Durham Recorder, in its editorial correspondence, says concerning Judge Merrimon's speech:

With all deference to a gentleman of such decided ability, and who, in the detached sections of his speech last night, stated his reasons for his views of statement, strength logic and power of language, I could not but think that Judge Merrimon was inconsistent with himself, and in his purpose all the way through.

GENTLEMEN of the Legislature, if you shall conclude not to sell the Western North Carolina Railroad, and you leave this question unsettled, what do you propose to say to your constituents when you are asked to explain your course? "You had the power," they will say, "to relieve us from every dollar of further expenditure on account of the railroad, and at the same time to relieve us of our pledges for its completion, and in addition to that to take from our shoulders the burden of the support of five hundred convicts. Why did you not do it?"

Will you tell them that you were advised by such eminent legal gentlemen as Messrs. Dorch, and Merrimon, that the thing ought not to be done, and that Mr. Hearne, Mr. D. L. Russell and Mr. L. W. Humphrey joined in the advice?

Do you think, gentlemen, that your constituents will be satisfied with such an explanation? Notwithstanding the ability and party fealty of some of the gentlemen who are so earnest in their opposition to the sale, we do not think that a Democratic constituency will relish the fact that a Democratic Legislature allowed itself, even in part, to have its line of action shaped by, or at least to meet with the approval of, Messrs. Russell, Humphrey and W. A. Smith, who are to so great an extent governed by considerations of partisan Republican politics. What do the Republicans, as party men, desire this Legislature to do? To defeat the bill to sell the W. N. C. Railroad, levy "one more tax," and adjourn.

A COMPLIMENT.

The Wilming Star has for a season ceased to exhibit its animosity against Governor Jarvis, and has stopped its sneers at the "sordid passions" of the "dear people." Its classic attainment, are now being devoted to the General Assembly. In a recent issue, having for its exemplar, the Sentinel in the days of rampant radicalism, it says:

"Most of the 'hands,' as Jo Turner used to call the Solons, cannot make $1 a day at full time. Let us see: for times twenty are eighty. Eighty dollars is not to be turned away during March winds."

Verily our contemporary is hard to please. Neither the "conspirators" of the Congressional delegation, nor the Governor, nor the Council, nor the "dear people," nor the General Assembly can pass its critical examination. It almost looks as if the Star thinks its immaculate self about the only correct thing in the State. It may be so, but in these days of majority rule, it is terribly unlucky to be in such a small minority.

BABY MINE.

Numerous were the verbal and written enquiries received at our office on yesterday concerning the Fitch baby. Donations of cat-nip, flag-root, linen, strange in shape and diminutive in size, poured in.

One aged lady offered to stay during the month, or at least during the rest of the session, for a few mortgage bonds.

Another lady, a little off color, inquired with some hesitation if Mr. Fitch intended to nurse the baby himself, or raise it by hand—and said if not, perhaps she might be service.

But all these kindnesses were of small avail. It pains us to have to state that the poor little thing is evidently not long for this world. We forbear to characterize the conduct of Dr. Humphrey, who, unless he is misrepresented has left the city, damning both Fitch and the baby. We hope that Tom Keigh will arrive in time in order that the poor little thing may not sleep in an unshaded grave.

A delicate question has arisen which will hardly bear extended discussion. A curious whisper is upon the tongues of the gossipists, that Uncle Sammy Tilson is in some way connected with the baby's paternity.

We feel authorized to state that it is untrue, as has been rumored, that there was a curious flesh-mark upon the child, though it resembles a cipher. Besides S. J. T. before the committee, in addition to his age proved an alibi.

As for Mr. Fitch, he is doing not only well, but decidedly better than could be expected. In fact he was, rather imprudently it seems to us, before the committee on yesterday afternoon, and we learn expects to leave Raleigh in a day or two. We hardly think the child will be in a condition to travel with him. We fear, however, that Mr. Fitch left his room too soon, for when before the committee yesterday his condition under Mr. C. across-examination was such as to create apprehensions of cerebral insanity.

The news wishes Mr. Fitch a happy voyage, but urges upon him the necessity of taking very good care of himself.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The Senate was yesterday the centre of attraction, the pending question being the motion of Mr. Dorch to strike out that portion of section 16 of the bill to sell the W. N. C. Railroad, which provides that in case of a failure to carry out the provisions of the contract no damage shall be recovered against the grantees, except that all the grants shall become void.

Mr. Dorch spoke strongly and well, and emphasized the points of objection to the sale which were made by him before the Board of Directors and before the committee. He was followed upon the other side by Mr. Leach in a telling speech, and by Messrs. Henderson, Davidson and Robinson, who skillfully met every point presented, and the debate closed by a sharp passage at arms between Mr. Caldwell and Mr. Everett. The debate was entirely satisfactory to the friends of the bill, though it developed no new feature of opposition. The amendment was rejected by a vote of fifteen to twenty-eight, and we believe that this is the largest vote that any amendment intended to defeat the bill will ever receive. We are confident that upon the final vote the bill will receive the support of several of those who voted for the amendment.

We are glad to note that the temper of the General Assembly seems to be to allow the fullest and fairest discussion to the opponents of the measure, and we hope to see this disposition continue, but when legitimate discussion is at an end, the responsible majority should understand that the people will hold them to an accountability for any expense of the extra session which can be avoided. Let everybody who wants to speak or go to go upon the record be permitted to do so, and then press the vote. Remember that the Wilmington Star thinks that you are remaining here in order to draw your per diem.

The following article from the Charlotte Observer concerning Mr. Dorch and the Florida suits should put an end, once and for all, to the mention of the matter in the State press. No one who knows Mr. Dorch, personally or by reputation, would tolerate for an instant any reflection upon his professional character. We venture to assert that the fee received was the smallest ever charged in North Carolina for the services performed, in a matter involving $25,000, and merely covered his expenses.

There is one circumstance in connection with the proceedings of Major Wilson, president of the Western North Carolina Railroad, and Director Dorch, acting as attorney for the road, in relation to the Florida suits, which deserves to be made public, especially to the American people, who will not feel that enough has already been done. "Punched as the Irish are to-day, their condition is one of happiness in comparison with that which they would have been in, in consequence of poverty, the majority of the Irish are cheerful. The people are enduring the great stress of suffering with a pluck and courage which is really admirable. It is my hope and prayer that the American people will not feel that enough has already been done.
